

EPCOT

'SOUNDS LIKE SUMMER' CONCERT SERIES AT EPCOT: "STAYIN' ALIVE" – BEE GEES TRIBUTE BAND

🕒 JULY 9, 2014    👤 MAGIC AND MEMORIES    💬 LEAVE A COMMENT

Some tribute bands sound good. Some look good. Some move & dance like the original etc... But every once in a while, you get this powerhouse combination of sounds GREAT, looks GREAT, stage presence is GREAT, show is GREAT, light show is GREAT!!! Such was the case tonight with this Bee Gees Tribute Band called, "Stayin' Alive" from Canada.

You close your eyes and The Bee Gees are THERE in the theater. Those that know me know that I've been a performing and recording / writing musician all my life. The older I get, the more discrete and snobby I get as to who or what impressed me :). These guys and their show impressed the heck out of me!

If you're gonna be anywhere in the Epcot area between now and this Saturday July 12th, it'd be worth your while to stop by The American Gardens Theater out in World Showcase / Epcot. Show times are 5:30 PM, 6:45 PM and 8:00 PM nightly (weather permitting) .

Ya' might wanna break out the white bell bottoms, low neck shirt (for the guys) with the 8 inch collars or perhaps a leisure suit. Then again, maybe just jeans or shorts and a 70's looking' T-shirt :). Oh, and maybe watch a rerun of, "Saturday Night Fever" before you come – just to set the mood.

Peace – Mike T.

---

SHARE THIS:

